My Dream Home at Fuorisalone 2018: Elisabetta Illy and Guindani's photography exhibit on the dream of haitian children.

Elisabetta Illy and Stefano Guindani, two exceptional photographers guided by humanitarian and social reportage, will bring the public during the upcoming FuoriSalone, hosted in the "INTERNI House in Motion" event at the Cortile d'Or. The photos, taken during a reportage in Haiti, bring the dreams and reality of Haitian children together through images that portray the kids by their houses are displayed along drawings of their "dream homes". The dream is mainly to HAVE A HOME.

The exhibit is a fascinating tale between real and ideal worlds, that guides the visitors through the journey of Fondazione Francesca Rava N.P.H. Italia Onlus. The mission is to bring awareness on the dramatic situation building of homes in Cité Soleil, the largest slum of the Western hemisphere where 300,000 people live among MY DREAM HOME will be set in an installation designed by architect Piero Lissoni/Lissoni Associati, in collaboration with the children drawings, and a project of a sustainable, affordable and versatile home unit, designed with the need to interpret the theme of the event "House in Motion" organized by INTERNI magazine. Lissoni's installation shows a vertical sculpture, suggesting an abstract concept of a residence, using the intense colors of Haitian houses. The displayed images will be available to the public and the proceeds will be donated entirely to Fondazione Francesca Rava homes in Haiti as part of the Fors Lakay project. The foundation helps children in need in Italy and the world, with education projects, children shelters, medical care, rebuilding and sustainability.
